IVTS Annual Meeting: 'REACHing regulatory requirements in vitro'

2-3 November 2010, Crowne Plaza Hotel, Liverpool

The aim of this two day meeting is to bring together the regulatory and research communities with a focus on:

- REACH legislation and the current in vitro toxicology tests used in assuring the safety of chemicals in Europe; and
- Innovative in vitro research aiming towards the development of new tests and future strategies that may go to address the current gaps in decision making in REACH assessment.

A draft programme and details of how to register will be included in the next e-Newsletter

Meeting report: IVTS session at the 2010 BTS Annual Congress

A full meeting report of the IVTS session – 'So you think you've got problems with your hormones' – at this year's BTS Annual Congress in Edinburgh is now available on the members only section of the Society website*, along with presentations from the session.

Congratulations to the IVTS Poster prize winner at BTS Amy Mercer, MRC Centre for Drug Safety, University of Liverpool, for her poster titled: The Chemical and Molecular Basis of mammalian Cell Susceptibility to Cell Death Induced by the Artemisinin Antimalarials.

IVTS newsletter changes

The IVTS will no longer be distributing a summer and winter newsletter to the Society membership.

Instead, we will be sending out regular e-Newsletters which will contain all the relevant information you'll need to keep abreast of the Society's activities, and other events in the in vitro toxicology field that may be of interest to you.

Archived newsletters can be found at www.ivts.org.uk/newsletters.html.
